

163

Roxbury, Nov. 6, 1858.

My dear Wendell:

Yours of yesterday is received, but I shall not let your mother read it, of course. Your view of her case is feelingly and thoughtfully expressed. I am happy to state that she is decidedly better, and think we may dismiss our apprehensions as to a fatal result. Dr. Geist speaks quite encouragingly about her. She suffers most in the night, as she cannot lie down on her bed. Her trouble is in heating.

Happily, sister Charlotte Anthony, of Providence, is now with her, and will probably remain a day or two. I suppose you are aware that R. D. Webb and his daughter are enjoying "uncle Henry's" hospitality, and that he is trying electricity for his bruised condition.

Charlotte and mother send loving regards to you and yours.

In galloping haste,
Your loving Father.

Ms. A. 1. 1 v. 7, p. 92 B